

The completion of the interior of this building, which we announced some weeks since, is worthy of more than a mere passing notice. It is the first house of public worship finished, as it was the first begun in our city, and with the exception of those connected with the mission to the Indians, it is, we believe, the first undertaken in the Territory.

The work on the building was commenced in November of 1855. The corner stone was laid with appropriate ceremonies, March 26th, 1856. The work has been from time to time interrupted and its completion delayed by the troubles in the Territory and by the lack of funds.

It has cost considerable over ten thousand dollars, exclusive of bell and clock, which cost about $1,200, and were donated to the Society. The walls are of stone, substantially built. The building is 44 by 64 feet with a tower 16 feet square, carried up about 50 feet, ending at present with the bell clock.

There is a basement story of good height, (11 to 12 feet), which contains two large and two smaller rooms, designed for schools, and so occupied for the last two years. The largest of these rooms—20 by 40 feet—is entirely above ground, with the exception of about two large windows. The room is fitted up after the most approved style with furniture made at the East, black boards, globes, &c.

About 170 pupils now receive instruction in the house. The main room above occupies all the space within the walls, and is handsomely finished. The pulpit, platform, slips and singers' gallery are of black walnut and arranged on the sides of the house common center is a few feet in the rear of the reading desk.

The effect of this arrangement is very pleasing and convenient, bringing the speaker face to face with every occupant of the seats. In the rear of the reading desk is an arched recess, nearly six feet deep, well lighted and ventilated. The bell is now hung in its place. It weighs about 1,500 pounds, and is of fine tone. It was the princely gift of a gentleman in Boston who refuses to have his name made public.

The clock for the tower, donated by a number of persons at the East, has already gone through perils, some by sea and land, but, after shipwreck and detention has at length reached its destination, a little behind time. The dials are in their places, and make a fine appearance. The clock will, we trust, soon be set in operation, and will be of great service, furnishing a common standard of time for the whole city, as the position of the church on the side of Mt. Oread, gives a view of a dial from almost every quarter and for miles around.

The society have abandoned the plan of renting the site, and, for the present, the house is free to all. Those who desire, can select seats for themselves, or in case of families, a whole slip, which can be reserved to their use by cushioning the same, or by some other designation.

A service of dedication will soon be held, of which due notice will be given. The Rev. E. N. Clark, Jr., still retains his connection with the church as its pastor, and it is hoped his acceptable labors may be retained for many years to come.

Pate turned up again. Some weeks since H. CLAY PATE, the hero of Black Jack, departed from Westport, and at the same time a negro slave which Pate had sold Dr. Morris, of that place, disappeared with Pate's horse. Dr. Morris started in pursuit, but Pate and the slave had reached St. Louis and left, it was supposed, for Virginia, before he succeeded in telegraphing to the police to arrest him. He then telegraphed to the police at every prominent point on the Ohio to arrest him. The only arrest made was at Pittsburgh, where a gallant Southerner found himself in limbo, but was soon discharged.

The Barker Star made but little reference to Pate's case. In the last number, however, it states that "Benj. H. Simpson has been appointed Postmaster of Westport in the place of H. C. Pate, Esq., resigned."

Also, that "Capt. Pate has been in our city for the past week, attending to matters of a personal and business character." The Miner of Independence, Mo., of the 18th inst., explains the "personal and business" matters as follows:—

"H. Clay Pate returned to Westport a few days since. The charge of stealing a negro, originally published in the Missouri Democrat, will, we learn, be legally investigated, as a writ has been issued against Pate, and a hearing before a magistrate is set for Saturday, [this day] at Westport. Able counsel have been employed both for the prosecution and defense."

We also learn that Pate has instituted suit against the editor of the Missouri Democrat for libel, laying his damages at $20,000.

Pate is entirely too modest; nothing less than half a million should atone for the foul charge that he, a U. S. postmaster, had been guilty of violating the Fugitive Slave law.

Mrs. C. I. B. Nichols, of Quindaro, will lecture in Republican Hall, over Ford's store, (this Thursday) evening at 7-12 o'clock.

Subject, "Political and Legal Claims of Women." Lecture free.

Mrs. Nichols' reputation as a lecturer, and the cause which she is so earnestly laboring to advance, should secure her a large audience, and especially should her own sex be well represented.

Three times the amount of wheat and twice the amount of corn that was raised last year, will be raised this season in the counties of Doniphan, Brown and Nemaha.

L. S. BOLLING, Esq., is to be the orator at the celebration of the fourth of July at Kansas City.

Suspended.
The Journal, a successful run for the politicians, and an unsuccessful one for its late publisher, has suspended. They assign a number of reasons for suspending, but the most prominent one is, that out of the many promises made to them, by the politicians, not one of them was redeemed. This is a lamentable state of affairs, indeed, but nothing more could be expected from the traitorous, treacherous and unscrupulous political devils who infest our midst.

If there is a set of men on God's green earth who deserve eternal execration, it is the politicians of Kansas, and particularly of this city and county.

We have listened to their "insidious wiles," in times past, but their oily tongues and high sounding promises have no charms for us now.

We commend them to their Heavenly Father, (if they have any,) with the hope that they will repent in sackcloth and ashes, for crushing out two as noble braves as ever trod within the human breast.—Lawrence's Weekly Letter.

Poor Mac! Entrapped by the "insidious wiles" of Republican politicians just before election, and finding their promises worth "hazy red," he has been on the stool of repentance ever since. He has renounced politics, prays "without ceasing," and indulges in a very pious vein of exhortation.

Normal Instruction.
Mr. C. L. Edwards, county Superintendent of Education, and who has been engaged in teaching in Lawrence for the last two years, will institute a normal department in his school, at the fall session, for the purpose of educating teachers, and fitting them more thoroughly for their vocation. He will occupy the same rooms, in the basement of the Unitarian church, as heretofore.

Mr. Edwards bears a high reputation as a teacher, and is a cause of congratulation that he is thus about to institute a higher order of instruction than has heretofore been available in Kansas.

Republican majority, 520.

Doniphan county Republicans seem to be a slippery set of fellows. A correspondent the Lawrence Republican, charges that the late speaker of the House entered into complicity with Democrats to secure the polling of large numbers of Irish votes which were illegal.

R. J. Porter, of Doniphan, got up a mongrel ticket with the names of four Democrats on it and his own, entitling it a "railroad ticket," and thus secured his election. Dr. J. B. Wheeler is also charged with deserting the party and working for the election of a mongrel ticket. So goes new-fangled Republicanism.

The Free State Delegates.
The Republican press of the Territory, with a modesty and truthfulness so characteristic of themselves, claim every Free State delegate as a Republican. But on the Free State platform. They received the votes of men of all parties, and are not pledged to the support of either Republicanism or Democracy. They evidently have the balance of power, and they will use it to secure to Kansas freedom from slavery, and then from political misrule.

The ladies connected with the Episcopal society in this city held a Festival, in their church building, last Thursday evening. The proceeds are to be expended in furnishing the church, which is now nearly completed. The spirit manifested by the congregation in building this beautiful place of worship, is really commendable, and success will undoubtedly attend the enterprise. The regular services of the Episcopal church are held every Sabbath at Masonic Hall, until the house of worship is completed, Rev. Chas. Reynolds, pastor.

It has been suggested that the best way the Republicans can manage to secure complete control of this Territory, is to set Montgomery and his Jay-Hawkers at work driving out and expelling all the Democrats of Kansas. Should he not be successful, then Old John Brown should be employed. In case the Republican party should get too large, why, set Jim Lane at work to reduce them, after the manner he disposed of Col. JENKINS.

Masonic Celebration.
The Masonic fraternity will celebrate St. John's Day, June 24th, in this city, with appropriate exercises, consisting of a procession, music, oration at the Unitarian Church, and dinner and ball at the Eldridge House.

Destruction of a Santa Fe Train by the Storm.
We learn, just as we go to press, that the train of Santa Fe was destroyed by the storm of Sunday night, on the prairie. The damage is estimated at $17,000. The train was loaded principally with dry goods. We have been unable to learn full particulars.—Jour. Com.
